CPUC Special Task Force on Diversity, Equity and Inclusion

Draft for consideration: December 10, 2014

The Council of the Princeton University Community (CPUC) exists as a “permanent conference of the representatives of all major groups of the University” where “they could raise problems that concern them and ... be exposed to each other’s views.” It is a standing body whose elected members include undergraduate and graduate students, faculty, staff members, and alumni. According to the CPUC’s Charter, the council has authority to “consider and investigate any question of University policy, any aspect of the governing of the University, and any general issue related to the welfare of the University; and to make recommendations regarding any such matters to the appropriate decision-making bodies of the University or to the appropriate officers of the University.” The CPUC is chaired by the President. The work of the CPUC is led by the CPUC Executive Committee, over which the Provost presides.

On December 8, 2014, President Eisgruber charged the CPUC Executive Committee with developing recommendations for improving University policies, practices and programming regarding diversity, inclusion, and equity for the campus community. The CPUC Executive Committee is further charged with proposing events that will enhance public dialogue about racial equality, diversity, and other topics critical to the future of our University and our country.

The CPUC Executive Committee has accordingly established the CPUC Special Task Force on Diversity, Equity and Inclusion. The Special Task Force process will include a Steering Committee (composed of the Executive Committee and additional members selected for this purpose) and three working groups focused on policy and transparency, academics and awareness, and structure and support. The three working groups will make recommendations to the Steering Committee.

The Task Force, including its Steering Committee and working groups, will provide regular status updates on its work and a report prior to the end of the FY15 academic year.
